The proprieters of the Merchants' Ex change propose to pay for the reinsument of the bodies of five Confederate soldiers provided twenty-four others will subscribe each the same amount; and they will also pay for five more, for every twenty-four other subscribers of the same sum. At this rate, if one hundred and fifty subscribers can be procured to rejuter five each, the whole number will be seven hundred and fifty; and if the cost be $3 50 each, there will thus be raised $2,625.

These centlemen will comply if any or all of the foregoing proposals are filled. Books will be opened at the Merchants' Exchange, opposite the Maxwell House, and also at W. C. Collier's bookstore for the ladies only.

Fraudulent Breach of frust. A negro doctor and preacher, name

James Eakins, who resides in Edgefield. was arrested vesterday upon the charge of a fraudulent breach of trust, and the case was investigated before Justice P. W. Brien. An old negro woman, named Milbrey, made oath that for some time past she had been depositing sums of money with said Eskins, with which she intended to purchase a lot, and that she was usable to get the money. As a matter of delense, Ealdns produce! an account showing the credits of the money received, and which had been expended in the purchase of medicines and his fees as the attending physician. A large number of witnesser, (members of Eakin's church) were examined, who testified to his good character, some of whom went so far as to say that they would not believe the woman on oath After a hearing of the case the defendant was acquitted. The prosecutor stemed t be very much grieved at the decision, r marking that she had worked hard for the money, and had been swindled out of it.

The New York Post of the afternoon he 7th inst. says: "Cash gold continues in abundant ply, and from seven to nine per cent, ha een paid for carrying the same. This advance in the premium is a surprise to. terday afternoon sold large amounts varionely estimated at six to nine millions The immediate cause of the rise is the decline of 5-20's in the London market to 781; private dispatches received since give the quotation at 781 and one or two as low as 78@781. It is not known what influence prompted yesterday's advance in the disount rate of the Bank of England; all the tches of to-day, however, agree that tive and an unsettled feeling prevails. "The money market up to the time of writing has been without special feature. the supply having been ample at the legal rate. Currency is steadily accompla-ting in the city banks. The supply of national bank notes with some of the banks is so large and their desire to get rid of it so great that the purchasers of the government gold yesterday have been offered nearly double the amount required, to make their payment; in one or two instances the banks were willing to lose two days interest provided their offerings were
